Operating the Controller

Background

Once there was a hero named Barbarossa—the Golden Emperor—the hero of the Scarlet Moon Empire. But the sun is now setting on that Empire.

The day is silently drawing near. The 108 Stars of Destiny are gathering.

The son of distinguished soldier Teo McDohl, one of the five Imperial Generals, lives without want for anything, surrounded by his attendant Gremio, his father's servants Cleo and Pahn, and his best friend Ted.

One day, Teo makes a trip to the north to protect his Empire. It is then that the boy realizes his place in the Empire and sees the world with his own eyes for the first time. A world filled with resentment toward the Empire awaits.

Map of the Scarlet Moon Empire

The Scarlet Moon Empire holds sway over the tract of land surrounding Toran Lake. At the mouth of the river, where the waters from Toran Lake flow out into the ocean, lies the seat of the Empire, Gregminster. Lenankamp, the town of trade, is located to the south of Gregminster, while Mt. Seifu rises up in the east. Protecting the area around the Empire's seat are the water fortress Shasarazade and the fortress Kwaba. In the south of the Empire sprawls the Great Forest. In the west are the Warriors' Village and Lorimar, and the Dragon's Den and Dragon Knights' land. The border of the great wasteland to the North is the front-line to the Joston Confederation, a bitter enemy of the Empire.

Starting the Game

We can't recommend highly enough that you use a memory card™ (sold separately) to save your game(s) in progress. This enables you to take breaks, and—more importantly—resume a game from a previous point if you make an unwise decision in the game.

- Insert a memory card into your PlayStation machine. (Warning: if the memory card is not inserted properly, a message telling you there is no memory card will appear on the screen. You can still play the game without a memory card, but the game cannot be saved.)
- From the Title Screen, press the Start Button to get to the Start Screen.

Beginning a New Game

When beginning a new game select New Game from the menu, and you will be asked to enter the name of the game's hero. This is the character you play throughout the story—your alter ego, if you will.

- Highlight the desired character with the Directional Buttons and enter it with the \otimes Button (or L2 Button). If you make a mistake, you can cancel your entry with the O Button (or LI Button).
- Once you are finished entering your name, the computer will ask you if the entry is OK. Choose Yes to start the game or No to return to the Name Entry Screen.

Continuing a Game

With Suikoden, you can save as many as seven games on one memory card. If you want to continue a saved game, choose Continue Game from the Start Screen.

If there is saved data on the card, a screen similar to the one shown below will be displayed. Highlight the game you wish to continue and select it with the \otimes Button.

Saving

Games can only be saved at inns or other specified places in the scenario.

Look for a blue sphere on a pedestal during the game. Stand before it and press the \otimes button to initialize the game save function.

The Game Screen

Normal Commands

Pressing the □ Button in the Map Movement Screen will bring up the Command Window. In this game, commands are divided between normal commands that can be executed in the Map Movement Screen and commands that you can execute when fighting or during battles. Here we will only describe the normal commands. There are six types of normal commands: Item, Strength, Rune, Formation, Equipment, and Setup.

1. Item

With this command, you can choose to Use, Hand Over (to another player), or Give Up (drop) an item.

Note: Some items cannot be given up.

2. Strength

This command allows you to view the status of each character, his/her weapon, and any runes attached to the character or weapon.

- EXP (experience points): Accumulate 1000 to move up to the next level.
- ATK (attack): The character's attacking power.
- ARM (armor): Defense rating based upon armor, shields, and other protective gear.
- PWR (power): A higher value increases the damage a character inflicts on an opponent.
- SKL (skill): The character's ability to attack successfully and to evade an opponent's attack.
- DEF (defense): Higher values make it difficult for an enemy to inflict damage.
- SPD (speed): Affects the order of attack. Faster characters attack quicker.
- MGC (magic): Magic ability: affects the frequency of attacks and the amount of damage inflicted.
- LUK (luck): With a lot of luck, a character can more easily dodge an enemy and can occasionally strike a crushing blow.

Rune

3. Rune

The Rune command is used to cast magic spells. First, select a character with magic ability. The available Runes will be displayed. Highlight the Rune you wish to use and select it with the Button. Certain Runes—such as the Fire and Water Runes—can be used after they have been lodged in the character's body.

There are four levels of magic spells, each requiring a different amount of Magic Points. The highest level that can be used by a character will be decided by that character's magic ability. Characters with low magic ability can only cast low-level spells, until their magic ability increases. After using a magic spell once, the number of points required for that spell will be subtracted from the characters total Magic Points.

When a character's Magic Point total reaches zero, that character cannot cast any more spells. Magic Points can be restored by resting at inns.

Note: By taking a Crystal to a Rune Master, characters can have the Master embed the spell of a Rune in their body. A character cannot cast a spell without the Rune and without taking its spell into his or her body. Crystals can be obtained in fights with monsters or can be found in treasure chests.

4. Formation

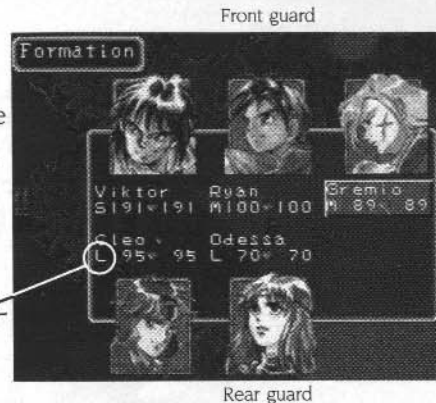

Here you can change the positioning of characters in battle between front guard and rear guard. Choose positions for your characters carefully, as the formation will place limits on your attacking methods as well as your enemy's.

Note: There are (S)hort-, (M)edium-, and (L)ong-range weapons.

Short-range weapons can only be used in the front guard.

Medium-range weapons can be used in either position, but can only reach the enemy's front guard.

Long-range weapons can be used in either position and can reach the enemy's front and rear guards.

5. Equipment

Here you can equip your characters with armor, shields and other protective gear. First select the character who will use the item, then select the item to be equipped. Only equipment that can be worn by the selected character will be displayed.

Note: Some characters may be using items that cannot be changed.

6. Setup

This command allows you to change various settings, such as message speed and sound options.

108 Companions

In Suikoden, you can acquire up to 108 companions. As the game progresses, you will meet a great variety of characters. Some of them will join your party and others may not because certain conditions have not yet been fulfilled. Each character has its own special ability and distinguishing characteristic. It is to your advantage to increase the number of your companions for strength in battle and for protecting your headquarters.

Headquarters

The headquarters system

Early in the scenario, the hero will take control of a castle to use as headquarters for the Liberation Army. Upon taking the castle, he will be able to assemble a party from the characters he has recruited on his journey. However, only six characters can be in a party at one time. The remaining companions must wait in readiness at the castle. The characters left in the castle all have duties for helping to develop the castle. If you acquire Rock the storage guard, for example, he will build you a storage area in which to keep your items and other valuables. By increasing the number of companions, your castle will grow larger as each character lends his or her services to you.

The main functions of the castle

Return Spell: If you acquire a character that can use the Return Spell, you can return to the castle from anywhere in the Empire with a Blinking Mirror.

Teleport: Using the Blinking Mirror, you can teleport to any village or castle that you have visited before.

Exchanging Members: You can exchange members if you talk to Sanchez or Mathiu.

Wars: Check with your military advisor and strategist often to stay abreast of current events.

Other shops to visit

Inns

Stop at inns to restore your members' hit points and magic points, or to save the game.

Hardware

You can buy and sell magical items, potions and medicines.

Clothing

You can buy and sell armor and items at their respective shops.

The Rune Masters

To gain special abilities and magic spells, a character must have a rune attached to his/her body. The Rune Master will do this for you, but you must take him a Crystal.

The Smiths

Increase the level of your weapons at a smith's shop. The smiths have different ranks, though, and the amount you can enhance your weapon is limited by the smith's rank. You can also give your weapons special powers using Rune Pieces, which some smith's will attach for you.

The Appraisers

Occasionally you will obtain an ancient artifact after winning a battle. Take these unknown items to an Appraiser to have them identified.

Fighting

If you encounter an enemy in the Map Movement Screen, the display will change to a fight scene.

Entering commands in a fight scene

Fight

Selecting this command brings up a menu display of five fighting strategies: Attack, Defend, Rune, Item, and Unite.

Attack: Attack with a weapon

Defend: Take a defensive stance

Rune: Cast a spell

Item: Use the selected item

Unite: Attack in combinations

Run

Select this when you want to flee from the enemy without fighting. However, you will not always be allowed to run away.

Bribe

Sometimes you can avoid a fight by bribing the enemy with money. The enemy may not let you get away if the amount is too low.

Free Will

Fighting runs automatically, with all players attacking with their weapons.

Formation

During battle, both you and your enemy assume formations in which members are either in the front guard or the rear guard.

Front guard: Characters can use any style of attack, including direct attack. The disadvantage is that they are vulnerable to more damage.

Rear guard: Characters can only attack with magic or medium- to long-range weapons. They cannot be engaged in hand-to-hand combat by the opponent. If a player in the front guard becomes unable to fight, a player behind him becomes part of the front guard.

Unite

This selection will allow you to fight in combination with other players. Specific combinations of two or more characters can have spectacular results.

Examples:

- Gremio and Pahn together will inflict 15 times the damage on an enemy.
- Tai Ho and Yam Koo will inflict twice the damage on an enemy, but will not be able to move the next turn.
- Anji, Kanak, and Leonardo will inflict twice the amount of damage when lined up together directly in front of an enemy.

There are many other effective combinations, but you must experiment uniting different members of your party.

Abnormalities in a Character's Status

Characters may be inflicted with various troubles during a fight. Most of these go away automatically after the fight is over, but some do not. It is wise to keep an eye on each character's status.

| Status | Condition | Cure |
|-----------------|--|--|
| Poison | Hit points decrease when the character moves | Antidote; cure spell; moving limited intervals at a time |
| Paralysis | Can do nothing during the battle | Cure spell; cured automatically at the end of the fight |
| Silence | Cannot cast spells | During battle: Mother Ocean or Yell spells |
| Bucket | Success in direct attacks is cut in half | OK on the next turn |
| Balloons | A balloon is attached to the character's head. Three balloons will cause the character to float up and off the screen. | Cure spell; needle |
| Staggering | Cannot move for one turn | |
| Unable to fight | Can do nothing during the battle | After battle: Medicine or Cure spells |

Major Battles

Once you have progressed a certain amount into the story, you will begin to face major battles. In accordance with your progress in the scenario, the battles will suddenly break out when you begin speaking to your strategist Mathiu.

Fighting major battles

Battles between the Liberation Army and the Imperial Army unfold like a card game.

When a battle breaks out, all of the companions you have collected so far are separated into established groups (as many as three in a group) and displayed on the screen.

You select a group with which to attack. After a group has attacked once, it cannot be used again for the remainder of the battle. Next, the Imperial Army's choice of attack method is displayed, followed by the results of the attack.

This pattern is repeated until the troop strength of one side reaches zero. If the Imperial Army's troop strength hits zero first, the Liberation Army wins. However, if the Liberation Army's troop strength drops to zero, you lose the battle and must start over from the last point at which you saved the game.

It is advantageous to have many companions for major battles. Thus, if you lose a battle, try increasing the number of your companions before trying again.

Battle groups

In a major battle, the 108 companion characters are divided up into prearranged groups for fighting. Each group consists of three characters: one commander and two that are second in command. Some groups may be missing characters who have not yet joined the party. In this case, the fighting strength of the group will be lower.

The following are the various methods of attack available, each with their special characteristics and temperament.

Charging attack

Good against arrow attacks. Weak against magic.
