DOA2 HARDCORE PROLOGUE

~ Disaster of Tengu at the end of the century ~

A great leader was killed at the end of the 20th century. His name was Fame Douglas, and he was renowned as the sponsor of the legendary world battle championship "Dead or Alive." Since his death—and in the absence of his charisma and leadership--the world has become chaotic. Amid this chaos, it is announced that "DOA2: HARDCORE Championship" will be held. However, Douglas' passing has taken with it the purpose and significance of the tournament. Even worse, the promoter of "DOA2: HARDCORE Championship," who is fond of conflicts and jealous of the strong, is responsible for Douglas' death. The new promoter is more than just a corrupt mastermind, but a man of pure evil. His involvement in the tournament has brought a sense of terror to the world, resulting in the infamous Tengu Disaster that occurred at the end of the 20th century. The climax of the disaster is about to begin with a roaring battle.

Thank you for purchasing "DOA2:HARDCORE" software for PlayStation®2 computer entertainment system. Be sure to read this instruction booklet before you begin playing the game.

This game can be backed up. Backup requires a memory card (for PlayStation 2) sold separately. Never switch off the main unit or insert/remove memory cards (for PlayStation 2) or controllers while saving is in progress. The game screens used in this manual may differ from those of the actual game.

Rules

1. Criteria for winning battles

In battle, the conditions specified below are required for a set victory and the player that wins the predetermined number of sets wins the battle.

KO: Opponent's health falls to 0.

Time Up: Your health is greater than your opponent's at time up.

2. Draws and sudden deaths

A draw occurs when both parties have the same amount of health remaining at time up, or in the event of a double KO. In the event of a draw, both parties earn points for that set. If both parties reach the number of sets required for victory at the same time, a sudden-death match is held. If there is no clear winner even after sudden-death combat, the defending champion is declared the winner.

3. Continue

Press the START button within the allotted time following the Game Over message to issue another challenge.

Battle screen

Set count:

Displays the number of sets required for victory. One light will illuminate for each set victory. The battle is won when all lights are lit.

In Tag Battle mode, 1P and 2P each have two life gauges. The display will change so that the life gauge of the character fighting is always displayed in front.

Time:

Time up occurs when this counter reaches 0. The player with the most remaining on his or her life gauge wins.

Life Gauge:

A player loses if his or her gauge drops to 0.

About the menu during game pause

Pressing the START button during a game pauses the game. A menu screen will be displayed.

Exit:

Exit closes the menu and returns to the game.

Strikes

P Punch

K Kick

Each character has its own strike moves. Combining them with the use of the directional button, you can execute various attacks.

Types of attacks

High attack: Hits standing opponents

Middle attack: Hits both standing and crouching opponents

Low attack: Hits both standing and crouching opponents

Super High attack: Hits standing opponents, no guarding

Critical Combos

When your opponent staggers, you have an opportunity for a series of attacks. String your strikes together in the right combination to cause maximum damage.

Guarding

← F | — High and middle guard

↓ ↓ F | — Low guard

Attacks can be made high, in the middle, or low. To guard against high and middle attacks, use left on the directional button. To guard against low attacks, use down. It is also possible to guard using the F button. You can guard against high attacks by crouching and low attacks by jumping.

Throws

F + P Ordinary throw

↓ F + P Low throw

When too close to your opponent, you can use the F + P buttons to throw him or her. Different characters have their own special throws. Use the directional button in combination with the F + P buttons to execute more powerful throws.

Evade Throw

F + P Evading Ordinary throws

(Well-timed) F + P Evading a string of throws

Ordinary throws can be evaded by pressing the F + P buttons the instant you're thrown. Some characters will throw again soon after the first throw. Well-timed use of the F + P buttons will enable you to evade that throw.

Hold

(Against a high attack) ↖ F High hold

(Against a middle attack) ← F Middle hold

(Against a low attack) ↙ F Low hold

By properly timing the entry of your command against the strikes of your opponent, you can fend off his or her attacks and launch a counterattack. Be aware, however, that the method of entering the Hold command differs depending on the type of strike.

Critical Hold

When you receive a hit as a counter, you may be forced into "critical status," during which time you'll be unable to guard yourself or attack. Critical Hold will relieve you from critical status, providing a chance to recover from an unwanted situation.

Arcade Version Holding

The input procedures for holding moves can be changed to reflect the ARCADE version. To change the setting, use the "CONTROLLER SETTING" in Option mode.

The input procedures will reflect PlayStation 2 mode when "Command Type" is set to "PlayStation 2" and ARCADE mode when set to "ARCADE."

(Against a high attack)   High hold

(Against a middle punch attack)   Middle punch hold

(Against a middle kick attack)   Middle kick hold

(Against a low attack)   Low hold

Down Attacks

  +  Down attack

  or   Follow-up attack

When a character goes down, you can execute a follow-up attack. Use the P or K Button for the follow-up attack, depending on the character.

Down attack

Down attack causes the opponent a bigger damage, but it also gives the opponent a bigger chance to attack while you are trying to use the attack.

2. UP + Press F button several times in succession:

Modes

There are eleven different game modes. Two players can play in Versus mode or during a surprise attack. When two or more people play, additional controllers are required (sold separately).

STORY MODE

This mode allows you to follow a story involving the character you have selected, and to attempt to complete the story. Battle in a tournament against the computer - if you knock out all of the enemies, the game will clear and you will be on your way toward completing it. If another player intrudes during play, you must engage in battle with him or her. If you are using 1P Controller, your opponent can press the START button on the 2P Controller, and if you are using the 2P Controller, he or she can press the START button on the 1P Controller, to launch a surprise attack.

* At Game Over, the screen will switch to the Continue screen. Press the START button while on this screen to resume play from Game Over. There is no limit to the number of times the game can be continued.

TIME ATTACK MODE

This mode involves fighting in a race against the computer, in which you'll compete for the time remaining until Game Clear. Conduct a tournament of eight bouts; when Game Clear is displayed, the Result screen will appear. If your total time is in the top ten at Game Clear in Time Attack mode, you can record your name. See "Name Entry" (page 21).

VERSUS MODE

This is a special mode for two-player battles. After each bout, the display returns to the Character Select screen and fighting continues until players exit the mode. By using Options to change settings such as health and the number of sets, you can engage in combat under a variety of conditions.

TAG BATTLE MODE

This mode allows you to form a tag team of two characters and conduct a two-on-two tag battle. Single players can fight five tournaments against the computer, fight another player, or engage in battles of up to four players simultaneously.

- Surprise attack combat OK.
- Tag Battle mode uses the Danger Setup Stage only.
- You can combine tag teams in any way you choose, but you cannot select the same character twice for a tag team.

Play Modes

Tag Battle mode consists of five Play modes. Select a Play mode from among those displayed on the screen, in accordance with the number of players.

P1 vs COM One player
The player uses two characters to battle the computer. (One player)

P1 P2 vs COM Collaboration of two players
Two players form a tag team to battle the computer. (Two players)

P1 vs P2 Two-player battle
Each player uses two characters to battle. (Two players)

P1 P3 vs P2 Two against one

P1 P3 vs P2 P4 Two against two
Four players split into two tag teams to battle. (Four players)

Four-Player Simultaneous Play

Four players can enjoy tag-team battles simultaneously. The combination of team members is the key to victory in four-player simultaneous play.

- * The number of potential players depends on the number of Controllers connected to the controller ports.
- * A maximum of four Controllers will be required. To play the game with two or more players, you'll need to purchase one or more Controllers, which are sold separately. To play the game with three or more players, you'll need to purchase a multitap (for PlayStation 2), which is sold separately.

Rules

Knock out both opponents to win. Use Options to adjust the number of sets.

Tag Change

F + P + K Tag Change

Press F + P + K during a bout to switch a character in battle with a tag partner. Characters not engaged in combat will gradually recover their health. When a character has already been knocked out, he or she cannot be used again.

Tag Combos

When your opponent is floating or in critical status, you can perform a quick tag change. Practice this skill, and your team will function as a powerful unit.

Tag Combo

(Move toward enemy)    +  +  | — Tag Combo
(Move toward enemy)   +  +  | — Tag Combo

In Tag Battle mode only, two characters can execute tag combos together. These may be initiated by either character. The moves available depend on the character combination. However, tag combos cannot be employed, when one character has already been knocked out.

* Some character combinations have their own special tag combos.

SURVIVAL MODE

This mode is for one player, and involves fighting against the computer until all your health is used up. Points are accumulated in accordance with the clear time and various items that appear during the game, and the goal is to have the highest total score at Game Over. In this mode, your health is partially restored at the end of each round. The key to earning points is to minimize damage while fighting, and to take advantage of any chances for points that come your way.

If and when a Survival mode battle ends and your score is within the top ten, you can record your name. See "Name Entry" (page 21).

*Surprise-attack combat OK

*You cannot Continue in this mode.

*The game will finish at Time up or in the event of a Draw.

Basic battle know-how

The techniques and tips below will help you win DOA2:HARDCORE battles.

Defensive Position

When you are about to be knocked to the ground, press the P, K, or F button to adopt a defensive position and avoid going down.

* The defensive position cannot be used against some types of attacks.

Counters

Use the same type of attack as your opponent – strike or throw – to execute a counterattack. A counter causes more damage to your opponent than a normal attack. In addition, when a strike is used to counter a throw or a throw is used to counter a hold, an even more powerful high counter-attack is launched, doing massive damage to your opponent.

Attacks and defense by the wall

With some strike moves, if you strike near the wall you can send your opponent toward the wall. Proper use of this move, such as putting some distance between yourself and your opponent or forcing him or her toward the wall, will help turn the fight in your favor. Some throws change if used near the wall.

* Escaping from the Wall

If you are knocked against the wall, you will lean on the wall in a weakened state for a fixed period of time. In such an event, hold the directional button on UP or DOWN as you stand up. This will enable you to stand up while pivoting against the wall..

Off the Edge

Stages such as "The Great Opera" and "The Dragon Hills" feature multiple levels. You can send your opponent off the edge by striking or throwing him or her at the edges of these stages, or by the wall. Be aware that falling to the lower levels of these stages will result in damage. The key to winning is using free steps to position yourself in accordance with the layout of the stage.

- * When you send an opponent off the edge, your character will jump down after him or her, but you will not receive any damage.
- * The tiered structure will differ depending on the stage. You cannot fall off the edge in some places.
- * Not all attacks allow you to send your opponent off the edge.

The World of "Dead or Alive"

What is a "Shinobi"?

The word "shinobi" is a very old one, preceding the modern word "Ninja." In Japanese, "shinobu" is a verb meaning "to perform actions with the utmost secrecy." In a more general sense it means "to endure by maintaining calmness." However, this kind of endurance means perseverance beyond the limits of one's imagination, even to the point of accepting death calmly. This is where Shinobi philosophies are readily apparent. For the Shinobi, the single most important principle is the continued existence of their tribe, and for this they require the will to endure all pain and suffering.

The famous realization of Hagakure, "Bushido is found only in death," is a discovery made by samurai. But in the world of the shinobi death is calmly viewed as a common philosophical view of a higher state. This philosophy is from an early age infused within the depths of the soul.

The Shinobi are a group of elite people who use their highly advanced techniques to perform espionage, combat operations, assassinations, etc. Internal struggles reached their peak in 16th century Japan. Accordingly, the Shinobi were similar to modern-day intelligence agencies and military SOG's*, yet they were unique in many ways. For one thing, they formed their own tribe, and their technology was inherited through a closed bloodline. Accordingly, training started very early in life. But only after completing tests and training so intense it cannot be described using words did they combine with the highly trained bloodline. All members were specialists of extreme skill.

Secondly, as this shows, they were a very independent group of people. They made their living from espionage and military operations, but they weren't simply an organization placed into effect by some government. They had skills exceeding even the most experienced samurai, and were masters of strategy. They were few in number, but they possessed enough defensive power to keep those in power at a constant distance.

This, however, was a state of independence on the brink of breakdown due to their existence as outsiders, along with the fact that they were so small in number. In order to maintain this independence, they sold their overpowering technology as a unique product to those in power. Even when the members of the same shinobi tribe were to become enemies during the course of their missions, professionalism was never sacrificed. Thus, personal ties were a hindrance to that professionalism. Once the shinobi left their home villages, parenthood and siblinghood meant nothing to them. To live in this cruel chain of society was the only way for them to continue their existence.

The secret to living life in this manner can be summed up in one word: "shinobi." Their very existence and purpose required that each Shinobi be able to endure circumstances that would otherwise be impossible to accept. The weak who were willing to abandon this endurance were considered a threat to the shinobi tribe, and were often killed on the spot. This iron-clad unity was the rule of blood that allowed the shinobi tribe to carry forth its tradition.

Hagakure is the beauty of samurai philosophy, but the Ninja viewed life and death more in fundamental terms. In light of this severity, even a samurai is merely a part of the general population. This structure allowed the shinobi to exist independently in small numbers yet be considered the strongest of the strong.

The shinobi tribes lived in hidden villages in the mountains, participating in power struggles without ever being a part of them.

What is interesting is the ties between the shinobi and Tengu.

The origin of the shinobi is thought to lie in a force of mountaineers who would not submit to the will of a centralized government (see "What is a 'Tengu'?"). The shinobi technologies and beliefs, which are passed down through the ranks and generations, are notably similar to the personality training practices and physical training philosophies of the yamabushi, who are considered to be the closest people to the mythical tribes of mountain beasts known as tengu.

Yamabushi were mountain priests who worshipped the tengu. They were obsessed with the God-like power of the tengu, and trained their minds, bodies and souls by running through the mountains in order to obtain that power. Generally, though, they couldn't hope to attain as much power as the tengu. Of course, the yamabushi weren't members of the tengu tribe, and their physical limits were no different than those of other Japanese people. However, on rare occasions a member of the yamabushi tribe would produce a tengu; a man with tengu-like powers and an amazing capacity for education and strategy.

It is known that the shinobi and yamabushi are hard to tell apart. In fact, there is a tendency to consider them as being one and the same. Since both groups of people maintained secrecy, there are no existing historical records depicting the relationship between the two. But certain evidence points in that direction.

Ninjutsu strongly emphasizes the technology employed by the tengu, and is therefore an interesting subject in and of itself. For example, the Ninpo "Izuna Otoshi," which is displayed in a fantasy-like manner in this game, is actually derived from the laws of Izuna pioneered by the great Tengu, Saburo Izuna. Therefore, Ninjutsu is feared and held as being superior to all other forms of martial arts.

* SOG: Special Operations Group. A military SOG is quite different from a non-military SOG, since it's related to the military and often supercedes the law, and is of utmost secrecy. For example, in terrorist situations the military SOG prioritizes the destruction of the terrorists over saving the lives of the hostages. A nonmilitary SOG, on the other hand, is usually a part of the police or similar agency and under all circumstances must obey the law. Their priority is to save the lives of the innocent.

What is a "runaway shinobi"?

Runaway Shinobi are ninjas that abandon the Shinobi tribe to which they're related. Secession is under circumstances allowed in Shinobi society. The shinobi always keep their secrecy, and in order to do so they follow an unbreakable code that maintains their livelihood and existence. Accordingly, those who escape the tribe's control with sensitive internal information are a very serious threat. These threats must be eliminated at all costs, and a band of Ninjas is often dispatched to kill the "runaway" Shinobi.

It is thus considered suicidal to become a "runaway" Shinobi. A cruel fate awaits anyone who should attempt it.

What is the Mugen Tenshin style Ninjutsu?

This is a faction of Ninjutsu. This faction can be further separated into "Tenjin Mon" and "Hajin Mon," and these two make up the foreground and background of Mugen Tenshin. The legacy is inherited by those belonging to the Mugen Tenshin faction.

Tenjin Mon

This is the foreground of the Mugen Tenshin style of Ninjutsu. Most of the Ninjas from the Mugen Tenshin faction belong to this side of Mugen Tenshin. They're trained in order to acquire superhuman physical strength and battle technique. They're highly resistant to physical pressure.

Hajin Mon

This is the backside of the Mugen Tenshin style of Ninjutsu; a well-kept secret within the already secretive Ninja society Mugen Tenshin. Members of this side are believed to possess superhuman physical strength and battle technique. Additionally, they're said to have magical abilities, and this makes them all the more feared.

The members of this side of Mugen Tenshin—a very exclusive group—are known to provide background support to the Tenjin Mon. The Haijin Mon possess unbelievable powers, but strangely they're sworn to utmost obedience to the Tenjinmon.

What is the Hayabusa style of Ninjutsu?

This is another faction of Ninjutsu. The Hayabusa don't form a large tribe as the Mugen Tenshin do, but instead carry forth their legacy through the skills of a few elite individuals. They're undoubtedly close to the Mugen Tenshin in terms of technology, but as with all shinobi history there is no documentation that explains how these two tribes are related.

The Hayabusa are considered to have the closest relationship with the Yamabushi and Tengu, and are accorded much respect.

What is the "Epsilon"?

At the end of the 20th century, a human modification experiment was performed on Hayate, one of the strongest Shinobi. The purpose was to develop a physical body of superhuman abilities. "Epsilon" was the code name given to Hayate, who was captured for the experimental subject. Apparently most of the modifications were made to Hayate's nervous system, but it failed to produce an improvement in Epsilon, and in fact resulted in the latter's destruction.

To succeed the Epsilon Project, there was a plan involving the cloning of Hayate's younger sister, who was considered genetically superior to Hayate. The first test subject in this second attempt is called Kasumi. Éø.

What is "Pi Qua Quan"?

Pi Qua Quan, among all the Chinese martial arts, involves the most movements. Mainly, it emphasizes mid- to long-range attacks, in which the opponent is confused by the attacker's constant motion.

Pi Qua Quan is named from the movement of the hands during an offensive. The downward movement of the hand is referred to as pi, while the upward movement is referred to as qua. As the name suggests, Pi Qua Quan is the circular motion of the hand, much like a windmill. A fist is seldom used. Instead, much of the offensive comes from hands relaxed with fingers extended, being used in a manner resembling a whip. The moves are full of beauty, yet the offenses are sharp and heavy.

In Pi Qua Quan the moves are smooth and flexible. It demands the greatest degree of flexibility, even among the northern faction of Chinese martial arts, which demand flexibility of the body.

What is "Jeet Kune Do"?

Jeet Kune Do is the fighting style developed by the greatest martial arts master. The advantages of other martial arts have been incorporated creating the concept behind Jeet Kune Do, which is "freedom."

This unique style, which involves entering battle in a free-form concept that is not governed by any rigidly prescribed form, was born only because Bruce Lee didn't just stop at becoming a great martial arts user but possessed the open perspective of a performer, as well.

What is "Xynyi Liuhe Quan"?

Xynyi Liuhe Quan is a powerful form of martial art capable of ending a battle with a single blow. In fact, it's considered by many to be the most powerful of all Chinese martial arts, and is a secret martial art form passed down through the ultimate secrecy of the Kaizoku (Chinese followers of Islam). Xynyi Liuhe Quan was introduced into the world recently, and its deadly combat characteristics became quickly well-known. Today there is virtually no martial artist that doesn't know of its existence.

Xynyi Liuhe Quan completely ignores any weakness on the part of the user, who aggressively engages in battle at close range. The intended result is to defeat before one can be defeated. Therefore, the offensive is extremely heavy and damaging, often not even allowing time for the opponent to retaliate. Headbutts and bodily collisions are its main weapons.

What is "T'ai Chi Quan"?

T'ai Chi Quan is a Chinese martial art popularized in Japan and the United States as a physical exercise that can be performed by even the elderly. Nevertheless, its original intention is as a method for combat.

The strength guided by chi, the breathing and the curving of the physical body, is used to instantaneously send a blow to the opponent. Since it doesn't rely heavily on muscles, it can be used by the elderly to produce damaging blows. The disadvantage is the fact that it takes a long time to master.

Among the Chinese martial art forms that do not emphasize structure, T'ai Chi Quan places a considerable emphasis on it. The reason is that the proper chi can't be obtained without the proper form.

What is "Command Sambo"?

The Central Asian region of the former Soviet Union is a vast storehouse of martial arts. Sambo is a technology developed by combining over 200 types of regional martial arts in the area. Its advanced moves, which target the joints, are feared by many. The damage toward the joints is definitive, immediately obliterating the opponent's ability to fight. Of course, this carefully constructed system gets real results in battle.

Command Sambo is a military martial art form based on Sambo, as developed by the former Soviet Union to focus completely on the offensive. Command Sambo leaves no room for mercy. It's a cold, mechanical martial art created for the purpose of surviving modern warfare and the constant struggle between life and death.

What is a "Tengu"?

Tengu is a mythical tribe of beasts living in the wilderness of the mountains of Japan. It is quite understandable that they are referred to as goblins by the Japanese public at large. Yet this mountainous tribe is too different from the norm. It's no wonder they're so different, since they're a completely different race than the Japanese.

The Tengu's appearance is strikingly different to begin with. They have very high noses and in the physical sense are significantly superior. There are people who claim they have seen Tengu fully 10 shaku in height. This is probably an exaggeration and it's unlikely that they are that tall, but the average height of a male Tengu is easily over six shaku. It's common enough for Tengu to reach seven shaku in height.

Their bodies are generally broad, and they possess great physical strength. The everyday game of "Tengu Daoshi" reflects the strength of these beings. In this game they knock over full-grown pine trees in the mountains. It seems like simple vandalism, but apparently there's a competitive side to the activity. The thicker the tree one can knock down, the more status one can earn. There must be some secret to this; some secret that only experience can teach. Nevertheless, it's clear they must possess inhuman strength in order to knock down full-grown pine trees in such a leisurely fashion.

Their skin tone is dark, and is usually red to dark red, but there are some Tengu that have the same skin tone as the average Japanese. The language they use is no different than the historical language of ancient Japan.

The Tengu seemed to have arrived from the Asian continent, and had a drastic effect on the Japanese, acting as teachers in order to demonstrate various technologies. The technology that is the basis of the various martial arts is usually obtained through the Tengu. From this it's apparent that the Tengu enjoy teaching others.

A point of contrast is that Tengu seem to live in the deep mountain forests, maintaining a degree of secrecy. Their magical technologies and knowledge are the basis of Japanese occultism. No matter the kinds of tricks they may use, their god-like powers are undeniable, and their knowledge and strength is the fear of many.

The full details of their existence are still shrouded in mystery. This is due to the difficulty of contact with the Tengu in recent years. Also, the Tengu veil their existence as the central sect in a society of mountain cultures.

The term "mountain people" refers collectively to those who live in the mountainous regions that make up the majority of Japan. It refers to those people who don't conform to the central governmental society of Japan. (Ninjas originated from these mountain people. See "What is a 'Shinobi'?")

Mountain people are independent and secretive, with little respect for any attempt at control by the centralized government. Furthermore, the Tengu--mountain people among mountain people--are even more secretive. In fact, they've had very little contact or relationships with the Japanese.

The Wings of Tengu

Tengu apparently have wings growing out of their backs. One theory holds that they can fly, and there are witnesses to support that. It's a wild and careless bedtime story that they are winged people. However, it is true that they wear wings on their backs as a fashion statement. Tengu appear in front of people unabashedly donning the wings on their backs.

One theory says the reason people say the Tengu can fly is due to the fact that the Tengu have amazing agility and have been observed jumping from tree to tree and rock to rock. However, this theory has been attacked by those who state that their wings aren't capable of sustaining flight.

The light-bodied actions by the Tengu don't really require wings, however. Ninjas perform such feats as a part of their training. It seems people have incorrectly deduced that they can move the way they do because of their superficial wings.

It is a fact, however, that they can jump from tree to tree and rock to rock. There are simply too many eyewitness accounts. It's no wonder they're considered magical when they move so freely, despite potentially dangerous and even life-threatening situations.

As with all masters, the God-like Tengu can make mistakes. A corpse of a Tengu with various abrasions and bodily damages was discovered at the base of the Kiso Mountain Range. It is thought that this particular Tengu faltered in his course along a rock high above, and fell to his death.
