DATS GATES

These allow you to return to DATS HQ.

If you encounter another Digimon on the map, you will enter a battle. Defeat the wild Digimon to turn them back into Digi-Eggs.

WHAT HAPPENS IN A BATTLE

1

The faster Digimon will be able to attack first. Once it's your turn, you can issue a command.

2

ISSUING A COMMAND

Select commands for your Digimon to advance in battle.

3

DIGI-EVOLUTION

If your Digimon is ready to digivolve, you can command it to do so.

4

END OF BATTLE

If all of the enemy Digimon go down to 0 HP, you win the battle! If all of your Digimon go down to 0 HP, you lose.

BATTLE OUTCOMES

How you encounter other Digimon on the map can affect the resulting battle. For instance, with a preemptive attack your Digimon attacks first, while a back attack lets your enemy get the first attack. If you win the battle, you'll advance to the battle results screen. If you lose the battle, you will be taken to either your last save point or, if you have no save data, back to the title screen.

DIGI EVOLUTION

If you select the digivolution support command in battle, you can make your Digimon digivolve.

Digivolution in battle differs from normal digivolution in that it will produce a Digimon that you have not digivolved into before.

See page 17 for more details.

EMOTIONAL COMMAND SYSTEM

Possible commands are displayed around your Digimon that reflect your Digimon's state of mind. If you select a command that has a lot of duplicates, your Digimon will jump for joy and like you more. This is the basis of the Emotional Command System.

When a Digimon is feeling tough, lots of Action Commands will appear. On the other hand, when a Digimon has taken a lot of damage and is feeling weak, lots of Guard and Escape Commands will appear.

The more a Digimon likes your player, the more damage its attacks will deal to the enemy. If you and your Digimon don't get along well, the damage it deals will be less. Always consider the situation you're in before acting, but usually it's best to choose the command that is being displayed the most so that you'll be on good terms with your Digimon.

If you wish to change the commands that are being displayed, try choosing a command or item that you haven't used. If your Digimon is feeling weak, select "Cheer Up" to make your Digimon feel tougher and make more Action Commands appear.

END OF BATTLE

If you win the battle, you'll go on to the battle results screen, which displays your current status.

- 1 EXP
Your Digimon's experience points.
- 2 BITS
Money you can use in shops.
- 3 ITEMS
Items obtained from the battle.

Press the \otimes button to return to the map screen.

LEVEL UP

Your Digimon will level up once it has gotten a certain amount of EXP. When your Digimon levels up, its status goes up, and occasionally it may learn new skills. A better status can make it easier for your Digimon to digivolve.

Press the  button on the map to display the menu screen. The things you can do from the menu screen are as follows.

EVOLUTION MAP

This is a special type of map that shows the digivolution process. The digivolution process is represented as a galaxy filled with stars, and the galaxy type differs depending on the Digimon. Select a galaxy for the Digimon whose digivolution you'd like to see.

DIGI EVOLUTION

As Digimon level up, their status goes up and they can eventually fulfill all of the requirements to “digivolve,” or to change into another Digimon.

There are many types of Digimon into which your rookie Digimon can digivolve. The Digimon that your Digimon becomes after digivolution depends on which of the various digivolution conditions you’ve fulfilled. Digivolution can be carried out by using the “Digisoul Charge” (aka “DNA Charge”) support command in battle, or on the map by selecting the desired digivolution on the Evolution Map. (For more info see page 18).

If your Digimon digivolves in battle, it will automatically go through a digivolution that it hasn’t undergone before, and you will be unable to choose the new Digimon type. If you use the Evolution Map to select a digivolution, you are free to choose whichever digivolution you’d like.

DIGI EVOLUTION PROCESS

GALACTICA EVOLUTION SYSTEM

Your Digimon's digivolution process is shown in the form of stars floating in a galaxy. This is what's known as the Galactica Evolution System. Digimon are shown as constellations in the galaxy.

Select the constellation you wish to see using the left analog stick or the directional buttons. If a constellation hasn't been completed yet, you may be unable to tell what Digimon it will become. The stars in the constellation each represent a necessary condition for digivolution, and fulfilling conditions causes the stars to shine brightly.

To find out what conditions are required for "Digivolution", highlight the constellation and press the \otimes button for information. Press R2 until requirements are shown.

Once you fulfill all of the conditions for digivolution the constellation will be completed, and your Digimon may be digivolved using "Digisoul Charge." On the right side of the screen you will see your Digimon's status details, as well as how its status will change if your Digimon digivolves.

- 1 HP Your Digimon's maximum health.
- 2 STR Your Digimon's strength. The higher the value, the more damage your Digimon will deal with direct attacks.
- 3 INT Your Digimon's intelligence. A higher value will increase the damage you deal with digital attacks (INT attacks) and make it easier to dodge digital attacks from enemies.
- 4 DEF Your Digimon's defense. Higher values decrease the amount of damage received in battle.
- 5 DEX Your Digimon's dexterity. Higher values increase your Digimon's ability to dodge direct attacks from enemies.
- 6 AGL Your Digimon's agility. Higher values can let you get the first attack in battle and increase your likelihood of success when running away.
- 7 LUCK Your Digimon's luck. Higher values mean a better chance that your actions in battle will be successful.
- 8 FIE Your Digimon's family. There are 8 possibilities: DR (Dragon's Roar), NSp (Nature's Spirits), JT (Jungle Trooper), ME (Metal Empire), DS (Deep Savers), WG (Wind Guardians), VB (Virus Busters), and NSo (Nightmare Soldiers).
