THE JUNGLE CALLS...

Daring and valiant, Pitfall Harry laughs in the face of danger. Whether he's leaping across the backs of vicious crocodiles or evading the sting of deadly scorpions, Harry never turns his back on a perilous quest. How does he manage to keep his clothes so clean and his hair so neat after hours of adventuring? We're not entirely sure. It's something of a mystery. But armed with the necessary gear to survive rugged terrain and the endearing charm that bothers some women, Harry is ready to take on any challenge!

Our story begins on a plane soaring over the dense Peruvian jungle. Our intrepid hero is on an expedition led by Dr. Bernard Bittenbinder, a curious archaeologist with an equally curious band of explorers. Among the ensemble, Harry's keen eye spies the bookish Nicole. Call it fate, or call it the fact she's the only woman onboard, Nicole is only the beginning of Harry's adventure. Never mind the fact that they're flying during a thunderstorm with an inadequate number of parachutes, we'll just assume they get to their destination safely. Right?

What mysteries lie in the jungles and ruins below? How will the natives react to Harry's presence? Will Harry answer the call of destiny? And what do you mean Harry has to spend part of his time catching butterflies? That isn't macho, is it?

PAUSE MENU (HARRY'S HEROIC HANDBOOK)

This isn't some safari ride at an amusement park. It's a big jungle out there, and Harry could use a little guidance every now and then. Luckily, his map is always available in his trusty handbook!

On the map, Harry's handsome mug marks your current location. A large red "X" marks your next destination. When you press the X button from the main map, you'll zoom into 1 of the 4 regions. Use the directional buttons to navigate around the levels, and the X button to see level details. The □ button displays the legend, if you need it. The △ button takes you back to the previous menu.

During the course of the game, Harry can purchase pieces of the map (see the Shaman section on page 17) which reveal even more vital information. Harry may need to backtrack every now and then, and it'll be good to know if he missed anything in previous levels.

Notes

Displaying his skill with the pen as well as the slingshot, Harry records key events and items. Anything from his next objective to information on how to beat those evil penguins is available in this section of the handbook.

Journal

Want more info on what to do next? Miss out on crucial information? That was just an accident, right? In any case, refer to the journal. There just might be some clues that'll help you out. Harry's entries describe all the various characters and encounters he's come across.

Inventory

Want to know more about the arsenal Harry is carrying in that backpack of his? Simply highlight the item using the directional buttons and select it with the X button. A detailed description will show you how to properly use the item. It's just like any list of instructions on how to use an item you're unfamiliar with. I think it's called a manual. Hmm...

Bestiary

As Harry encounters different animal enemies, a new entry in his Bestiary will appear. The various denizens of the jungle, caverns and icy regions are all unique. Some will make you laugh, and some will make you cry. Some are just completely misunderstood. But that doesn't mean Harry has the time to stop and sympathize. He has business to take care of, and information about his opponents may shed some light on how to defeat them.

Native Games

Sorry, you'll have to find out for yourself what these are.

Hints

Because we understand that it's a hassle to log on to the Internet to find out how to beat that boss battle (you cheater), some hints are provided to guide you through. And best of all, they were already presented to you during the course of the game! You can tell all your friends that you got Harry far into the game without any help!

Shaman Shop

Here, you can view the various items Harry has or has not purchased. The number of idols Harry has uncovered is also listed on this page. (See the Shaman section on page 17.)

Heroic Handbook

Forgot how to do the Rising Strike? Does the complexity of how to perform the Heroic Dash technique elude you? Simply highlight the Heroic Action you've already learned with the directional buttons. Push the X button to select the move, and a brief review will appear. A description of the move along with the proper button sequence is provided for you.

Save

At any time during gameplay, the Save option is available to Harry. Use it wisely, adventurer. You can save in any of the 4 save spots available. The X button selects the save spot and confirms your save. You can overwrite any previous saves, so make absolutely sure you're OK with deleting them forever in the sands of time. The Δ button cancels out to the Main menu.

Note: Your game progress will only be saved as it was when you entered the current level.

THE SHAMAN WHO DOESN'T COME CHEAP, AND THE IDOLS THAT PAY HIM

During the game, Harry will undoubtedly catch the shimmer of the Mystic Idols scattered throughout the map. Use the right analog stick (with nothing equipped) to grab the idols whenever you see them. Some are easier to see than others. Certain idols take a little extra work to find.

Ultimately, Harry will need Mystic Idols to barter with the Shaman. This mystic native can be found meditating in various places. The wise and all-knowing Shaman holds the key to Harry's future. Well, sort of. He can teach Harry Heroic Actions, provide new pieces of the map or help Harry out with health. All in exchange for the idols Harry finds.

When you meet with the Shaman, a list of what you can buy will pop up. Any item or move you have already purchased will be grayed out. The price for each item or move is listed on the far right of the menu. Use the directional buttons to navigate and the X button to select your order. The START button will exit out of this menu.

OH THE PLACES HARRY WILL GO...

Heart of the Jungle

Right from the beginning, Harry has to deal with living pits, crocodiles, the irritating scream of howler monkeys and more. Get used to the technique of vine swinging, because there are vines just about everywhere. You're going to run into very interesting characters along the way. Don't be discouraged if there's an area you can't get to right away. You'll gain the necessary abilities soon enough.

Native Territory

It's more jungle for Harry! But this time around, Harry can find a native village. Will they be friend or foe? Well, for one thing, it doesn't look like they'll even let you in! And who are these guys throwing TNT at you? The mystery of the ruins begins to deepen...

Lost Caverns

You'll need a way to travel safely on water to get through! Looks like there are traps all over the place, and someone in the dark depths of the caverns knows you're coming. You'll need all your wits to survive. Beware! The eyes are always watching...

Snowy Mountain

Hope you're properly equipped at this point. Not just for the terrain, but for the residents of this icy region! Looks like your enemies here are picking more than the average snowball fight! There's more than one way to travel, just remember not to look down!

Ruins

There are ancient ruins spread all over the map. Rest assured, they're all lined with traps. One ruin in particular holds the most prized of treasures...

JUNGLE INHABITANTS

Howler Monkeys

If you see just one of these guys, no problem. Consider it a walking punching bag. But if you see a dozen howler monkeys getting their beauty sleep, you better figure out a way not to wake them up!

Crocodiles

Harry's an expert at dealing with crocodiles. They even serve a useful purpose, just so long as you don't aggravate them too badly. All is not lost, even when you're caught in croc jaws...

Natives

Harry can't seem to communicate that he means no harm. Can't say we blame the natives; they think you purposely caused the big explosion from the sky to fall right into their backyard! For the sake of self-defense, you'll have to knock the natives out unless you want to be pelted by coconuts. Be prepared, though. Some natives have trained to survive in different terrain.

Scorpions

They may seem like pushovers at first, but it turns out you can't keep these stingers down for long. If you run into several, you may just want to get out of that location. Don't worry, you'll find a way to deal with them properly down the road.

Mercenaries

Looks like your expedition team wasn't the only group of foreigners to land in these parts. You'll need to move fast to take these guys on. They have training behind their moves. Harry will be OK, just so long as he can get himself close enough to strike.

Bats

A big nuisance that just won't leave our hero alone. But Harry can find a way to keep them at bay. They prefer the solitude of the darkness anyway.

Eels

Be careful, Harry. You may have vanquished everything on land so far, but electric eels rule the water grottos. Do everything you can to avoid them. Sorry to say it, but you'll be forced to maneuver through swarms of eels while underwater. You didn't think we'd make it easy on you, did you?

Porcupines

According to nature programs, porcupines are slow moving creatures that only go on the defense when in danger. Not THESE porcupines, though. They have a big attitude problem. If you startle them, they'll shoot deadly quills at you. If you walk slowly toward them, they'll shoot deadly quills at you. If you stomp around and cluck like a chicken—they'll still shoot deadly quills at you. Don't worry. Sometimes they won't be shooting quills at you. Sometimes they roll into a spiny ball and charge you.

And that's only a few of the enemies you'll encounter out in the wild, Harry. See, while some people boast that the jungle teems with life—it's something you'll be muttering bitterly as you encounter constant danger.

HARRY'S FRIENDS

Bernard Bittenbinder

Bernard Bittenbinder is a long time archaeologist with extensive field experience but limited fame. After formal training, Bittenbinder has spent most of his time in the field as the trusted assistant of Kevin McCallister. Harry admires Bittenbinder, but has the feeling he isn't telling everything there is to know...

Nicole

Beautiful and reserved, Nicole is something of a bookworm. She has limited practical knowledge of the world outside of her academic studies. Interest in the natural world has been the driving force in her life. She can quote chapter and verse on various flora and fauna even though she has never actually seen them in the flesh. Will she treat Harry like a thorn in her side or will she accept his help? It all depends on Harry's conduct. I'm sure he won't let us down.

Leech

Leech is more than an inventor, he's one of the great scientific minds of his age. However, his jovial, capricious nature makes most people think he's just a goofy, nerdy tinkerer. Harry is more than willing to help Leech out of trouble, even though he has no idea what Leech is saying half the time.

Mole

Mole is an ex-military commando who was drummed out of the service for his "over-zealousness" with explosives. He comes off as a very tough, rugged jarhead but really he's more like a kid with a firecracker. He just likes the bang and the flash. Harry is okay with receiving help from Mole...as long as Harry can stay a good distance away.

HARRY'S FOES

St. Claire

Jonathan St. Claire is a rough and tumble French mercenary who makes a living selling precious archaeological artifacts to the highest bidder. Having grown up on the streets of Paris, St. Claire learned to be ruthless while at the same time maintaining an air of charm. Basically he could steal your wallet while making you believe he's your best friend. There is no love lost between St. Claire and Harry. These rivals have tussled more than once all over the globe.

TIPS

- Save, save, save! Whenever you begin a new level, be sure to save the game in the Pause menu.
- Whenever you learn a new Heroic Action or receive a new item, keep your eyes open! They might help you find or open new passages!
- While most enemies can be vanquished, there are very few that cannot. If they tower over Harry or are considerably larger, it may be best to stay away completely.
- Remember, when you have the sling or TNT equipped, Harry has an evasive dodge maneuver in the event the enemies fight back!
- Fill up the canteen whenever you run into a healing fountain. Don't waste water!
- When in doubt, consult Harry's Heroic Handbook. Journal entries, hints and tool descriptions can answer the most perplexing of problems.
- Eat your vegetables. Harry eats his vegetables.
